Communists Flee In Rout In Yongchon Area

Red Stab At Taegu Is Delayed

South Koreans Being Lauded

TOKYO, Sept. 12—(Tuesday)—Communist forces abandoned big mobile guns and other equipment northeast of Yongchon and fled in confusion Monday before a South Korean Eighth Division counter-offensive that has gained almost six miles.

An American officer at U. S. Eighth Army headquarters in Korea described the enemy retreat as a "rout" and said the victory was one of the South Korean army's greatest successes of the war.

The triumphant South Koreans late Monday afternoon were drawing a noose around an enemy pocket containing an estimated 2,000 Red troops about four miles from Yongchon.

U. S. airmen who flew over the pocket said the defeated Communist soldiers were running about aimlessly in mass confusion. Fighter planes strafed fleeing Red convoys farther up the road.

Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, American field commander in Korea, visited headquarters of the South Korean second corps, which includes the Eighth Division, and pinned the Legion of Merit on South Korean Commander General Liu.

THE SMASHING of the Red thrust at Yongchon relieved one serious threat to Taegu, central defense bastion 19 miles to the west.

Drunken Driver Gets Ten-Day Hitch In Jail

A Circleville Route 4 man was fined $150 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in jail last weekend for drunken driving.

George Edgar Young, 65, received the fine and sentence in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root following a traffic accident on the Ringgold Pike.

Deputy Sheriff Walter Richards said the man had been driving a pickup truck on Route 188 about four miles east of Circleville at 8 p. m. Saturday when the vehicle struck a culvert.

The deputy said the pickup truck struck the right side of the concrete culvert, whirled around the highway and struck the left side of the culvert with its rear end.

Guy Young, 55, also of Circleville Route 4, brother of the driver, suffered lacerations of the head, left eye and nose in the smashup. He was given treatment in Berger hospital.

Army's New Plan Turns Out Division In Only 6 Months

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—Army authorities said today that they now can turn out new combat divisions in little more than six months, as compared to a year required during World War II.

The Army will expand from ten to at least 18 and possibly as many as 30 front-line divisions in a drive to meet the needs of the Korean war and additional defenses in Europe.

During World War II, the training period for new divisions was 42 weeks, but an additional two months was needed for test exercises. The Army considered that a year was the minimum for putting a fresh division into action.

The new training schedule for an 18,000-man division is 26 weeks, with tests cut to two weeks—for a total of 28 weeks.

This schedule applies regardless of whether the division is a National Guard unit called to ac-

YANK CARDS ON TABLE

Western Power Confab To Study Europe's Needs

NEW YORK, Sept. 11—The Big Three Western foreign ministers converged in New York today for momentous Western Power conferences with America's cards, for the most part, already on the table.

France, Britain and the other nine North Atlantic treaty adherents who join the Big Three at the end of the week will be told:

1. The U. S. is building its armed forces up to three million men or more; is converting major industry to armaments production; and is enforcing on itself higher taxes and controls.

2. The U. S. is ready to send more troops to Europe—to the extent that the other Atlantic Alliance powers proportionately contribute.

3. Western Germany must be drawn into the military picture, perhaps contributing ten divisions by July 1, 1951, with the Atlantic Pact countries arming them.

4. A unified command of this combined European army is necessary, and the U. S. finally is willing that an American be its head. The names of General Dwight D. Eisenhower and General Omar Bradley are most frequently mentioned.

SECRETARY of State Dean Acheson and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman were flying into New York today, and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin is coming in tomorrow.

and artillery as would be needed if the divisions were going up against a major land and air power.

The official said: "If we were fighting a war similar to the last one, we would probably still want the 42 weeks to train a division. But for the present emergency, the new program is satisfactory."

"We are cramming more things together and working together and working harder. Everybody, of course, hopes that the Korean war will be over within a year."

Shortcuts in the program include instruction in marching and drilling while the troops are moving from one classroom to another, and the teaching of two or more subjects in the same class.

Instruction in marksmanship is cut from 80 to 60 hours, and map-reading from 16 to eight hours.

Invitation To Red China Tops Agenda In UN Talks

LAKE SUCCESS, Sept. 11—The UN Security Council resumes debate today on Russia's demand that Communist China be invited to attend council proceedings on alleged U. S. Air Force bombings of Manchuria.

The 11-nation council meets later today in an eagerly awaited session. Interest centers on the outcome of the vote on Soviet Delegate Jacob Malik's proposal for the seating of the Chinese Communists at the council table.

The council voted last week to give prior consideration to Malik's proposal, ahead of consideration of the Peiping regime's charges that American military planes bombed and strafed Manchurian territory. The vote was 7 to 3, with one abstention.

The result of the vote raised speculation that the council might approve the conditional seating of a Chinese Communist representative, in view of the fact that the United States abstained.

A top U. S. source, however, declared over that the U. S. would oppose inviting the Communists to council debate on the Manchurian question and that of Formosa. U. S. Deputy Representative Ernest A. Gross declared that nothing new would be added to the substance of the matter by the seating of Peiping spokesmen at the council table.

OTHER DELEGATES, reached for comment would not divulge their stand on the invitation issue.

The problem of the invitation ties in with the U. S. proposal for an India-Sweden investigation commission to probe the charge of the Manchurian bombings. The Indian vote is being particularly awaited because of India's recognition of the Peiping regime and its nomination to serve on the Manchurian investigating commission.

U. S. sources are prepared to write off the proposal for the India-Sweden commission, should the Peiping government stand firm on its opposition to UN investigation of the Manchurian incident. However the U. S. may cope up with other proposals for dealing with the Communist charges.

U. S. spokesmen maintain there is no point in inviting the Chinese Communists to Lake Success solely for speech-making purposes and without agreeing to an impartial inquiry into their charges.

B-29s Pound Red Bridges

TOKYO, Sept. 11—B-29 Superforts pounded bridges and rail lines in North and Central Korea today, scoring solid hits with 500-pound bombs on enemy communications.

The U. S. Far East Air Force announced that the Superforts ranged over the battle zone in small formations. Among targets were three railroad marshaling yards.

Jets slashed at enemy air fields and one flight left three parked Red planes burning in Pyongyang, capital of North Korea.

Dictatorship Is Feared

Kilgore Anti-Red Bill Under Fire

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—The Kilgore bill for concentration camp detention of Communists was blasted today as "the blueprint for establishment of the dictatorship of the proletariat in the United States."

The charge was the latest made by Sen. McCarran, (D) Nev., author of a rival Communist control measure. The Senate will choose one or the other tomorrow.

Earlier, Sen. Kilgore, (D) W. Va., asserted that McCarran's Communist registration feature would rip apart the FBI's network within subversive organizations by requiring undercover agents to testify in order to enforce the criminal provisions of the legislation.

McCarran today called that charge "poppycock" and declared that Kilgore's bill actually contains a provision which allows the attorney general or the officer the President designates to administer the law to decide whether to produce government witnesses and evidence against a person picked up as a subversive.

"The President could set up a military dictatorship under the Kilgore substitute or could appoint a little commissar in every county in the United States."

"THEY COULD go out and pick up a man and throw him in a concentration camp just because some unidentified and unproduced person says he is a Communist."

McCarran's bill requires that all Communist, Communist-controlled organizations and their officers register. A subversive activities control board would administer the act and list subversive groups.

Shaw Ailing

LONDON, Sept. 11—The British Press Association reported today that Playwright George Bernard Shaw has been taken by ambulance to a hospital suffering from a fractured thigh. Shaw fell yesterday in the garden of his home at Ayot St. Lawrence. He is 94.

SIGN BEHIND HIM bears out the sentiments of Pfc. Joseph H. Wilson Jr., of Cumberland, Md., who is determined that after the time and effort he put into digging his foxhole in Korea, he is going to keep it as long as he needs it.

New Economic Controls Awaited; Production Authority Created

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—Official Washington looks today for speedy imposition of federal economic controls to insure the flow of needed materials to the accelerated defense program.

Source of the control directives will be the new National Production Authority, set up Sunday to administer the allocation, priority and inventory control powers which Congress gave President Truman to help him cope with the Korean war and defense needs.

A tip-off that the NPA, established less than 24 hours after Mr. Truman gave the go-ahead, would act swiftly was contained in Commerce Secretary Sawyer's assertion that "the first official NPA orders may be expected promptly."

The agency was set up by Sawyer and will operate within the Commerce Department. Its chief is William Henry Harrison.

Politicians Watch Maine's Election For National Trend

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—The first statewide election of 1950 takes place today in Maine, followed by hundreds of intra-party battles tomorrow in primaries in seven other states scattered from coast to coast.

The old political adage that "as Maine goes, so goes the nation" may no longer be true, but top leaders are watching the Maine balloting for signs of a national trend.

Tuesday's primaries are in Vermont, New Hampshire, Michigan, Minnesota, Colorado, Arizona and Washington. In all, the parties nominate candidates for six governorships, five seats in the U. S. Senate and 41 seats in the House.

There was a time when the Maine elections, staged in September were a harbinger of the November results. That notion was jolted when the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt carried 46 states in 1936 after Maine first went Republican.

This year, GOP Governor Frederick G. Payne and three Republican congressmen, Reps.

Four Cars Are Turned Into Debris

Scene Of Wreck Is Near Coshocton

COSHOCKTON, Sept. 11—At least 27 Pennsylvania National Guardsmen were killed and 61 others injured today when the Spirit of St. Louis smashed into the rear of a stalled 20-car troop train six miles east of here.

Eight hours after the crash, the death toll still was not determined officially. Estimates of the dead ranged as high as 35. The 27 known dead figure was announced by Army officers.

The last four cars of the troop train were telescoped by the impact of the collision. The wreckage was in such a tangle that observers could not tell the construction of the wrecked cars.

Of the 61 injured, Army officers said 20 were critically hurt. They were taken to hospitals in Coshocton, Cambridge, Dover, Dennison and an improvised hospital in Coshocton.

Maj. George Ford of the Ohio Military District, said it has not been determined who will notify next of kin of the dead and injured. The troops were heading for Camp Atterbury, Ind., and federal service.

RIDING IN THE telescoped cars were members of the Wilkes-Barre, Pa., 109th Field Artillery Battalion. An officer said that if the crash had come 15 minutes later, most of the men would have been at breakfast in cars farther forward in the train.

Lt. Col. Frank Townsend of Wilkes-Barre, the battalion commander, told newsmen indications are that the troop train had stopped in the fog because (Continued on Page Two)

Moonshining Up Ten Pct.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—An Internal Revenue Bureau report said today moonshining increased about 10 percent in July, but was still considerably below the prewar rate.

The bureau reported it seized 682 stills in July as compared with 608 during the same month last year. In July, 1939, however, government agents put 859 stills out of operation.

oerats are running unopposed candidates to battle the GOP in November. They are Emmett J. Kelley in New Hampshire; James Bigelow in Vermont and Rep. John A. Carroll in Colorado. In Arizona, the Republicans will nominate Bruce Brockett, a rancher, against Hayden.

In Washington, the Republicans are staging the most interesting primary battle, aside from the Tobey-Powell contest in New Hampshire. Five Washington Republicans are running to win the right to oppose Sen. Magnuson.

They are National Committee woman Janet Tourtellotte, State Rep. George C. Kinnear, businessman W. Walter Williams of Seattle, Carl V. Holman, with labor support, and Al Canwell, former chairman of the state's committee to investigate un-American activities.

Williams is favored as he, alone, is from the western part of the state, but Mrs. Tourtellotte predicts her own nomination.

duel raged with enemy shells falling on the city's fringes. Some 20 miles below the rectangular Allied beachhead, other U. S. Army units and swarming planes hammered back powerful new Red onslaughts toward the Taegu-Pusan lifeline.

At one point in each sector, the enemy—at a fearful cost in lives—managed to project small forward wedges.

But in a third area—the east coast—South Korean troops, bolstered by U. S. tanks, artillery and aircraft, exploded with a fresh counter-offensive Monday that gained an additional two and a half miles.

In the Korean war's fourth battle zone—the south—air-supported American ground forces cleared their rear of infiltrating units after frustrating two further Red attempts to advance at points 30 to 35 miles west of the keystone port of Pusan.

At 8:30 p. m. field headquarters communicate said the U. S. First Cavalry Division's west flank below Red-held Waegwan, 12 miles northwest of Taegu, "received heavy pressure" Monday. The bulletin acknowledged the Americans were "pushed back" 1,000 yards.

FHA Adopting Plan To Protect Men In Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—The Federal Housing Administration has reinstated a World War II policy designed to protect families of reservists and draftees from being evicted from their homes.

Officials reported today that the policy is being adopted without change and is broad enough to cover most hardship cases resulting from Defense Department mobilization plans.

FHA has taken the action in view of widespread interest among young men drafted into the Army and reservists ordered to duty who are buying houses on FHA-backed mortgages.

Many were reported fearful that they may lose their homes as a result of the calls.

To solve the problem, FHA has instructed its field offices that provisions of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1942 which is still in force can be reemployed.

This law permits a delay in foreclosure proceedings and allows lenders to suspend monthly payments on the principal of a loan until the man returns to civilian life.

On the second provision, principal payments would be delayed for the period of military service and three months thereafter.

One Car Rams Another; It Tunnels House

Residents of 723 North Court street learned Monday about rude awakenings.

The lesson came about 2 a. m. when a car tunneled into the side of their house.

The accident took place, according to local police, when a car driven by Forest Redman, 21, of 421 Abernethy avenue slowed to make a right turn from North Court street onto Haywood avenue, and another auto, operated by Dale DeLong, 23, of 370 East Mound street, crashed into his rear. Both cars were southbound.

Force of the impact, police said, sent Redman's car up over the sidewalk and into the front of a house occupied by Mrs. Gladys Wiggins, Mrs. Martha Horn and her son, Robert.

The blow punched a hole through the frame house, cracked porch pillars, buckled floors and shook down plaster, police said.

Injuries to the drivers were described as slight, with DeLong suffering a cut lip and Redman a cut on his right knee.

Berger hospital, was returned Saturday to his home.

Mrs. Jesse Hildenbrand of Kingston Route 1 was released to home Monday from Berger hospital, where she had been a surgical patient.

a coupling between two of the cars had broken. He said he was standing beside the train when the crash occurred.

Townsend said a flagman was attempting to wave down the crack Pennsylvania flyer which was approaching at top speed.

Father Paul Bailey of Notre Dame, a passenger on the Spirit, and the Rev. Peter McEwan of Coshocton administered last rites for the dead and dying.

A corps of ambulances from towns within a 25 mile radius transported the dead and injured to hospitals.

Private physicians administered first aid to a long line of soldiers who suffered minor injuries in the wreck. The state highway patrol set up its loud-speaker system and mobile radio unit.

Workmen attempted to cut their way into the wreckage with torches. Eight or ten bodies are believed still in the wreckage.

The troops said they felt two jolts when the double-engine train struck. The first one was lighter than the second. When the diesel-powered Spirit struck, it upended the last car of the troop train, split the second and telescoped the third.

Two Columbus Men Seriously Hurt In Wreck

Two Columbus men were injured seriously at about 2:45 p. m. Saturday when the truck in which they were riding crashed through a concrete bridge on Route 23 north of here.

State Highway Patrolman Clyde Wells identified the men as Carl D. Dotters, 29, the driver, and Robert Burgett, 23, a passenger in the truck.

Wells said the accident occurred on Route 23 near Route 762. The patrolman said the truck was headed south toward Circleville when it went into a skid on the curve. The truck plunged to the left, hit a guardrail and crashed into the bridge.

Wells said the crash ripped out about 15 feet of the guardrail and the truck crashed through the concrete bridge and into the drainage creek on the left side of the road.

Both men suffered severe head lacerations in the mishap, while Burgett also suffered a severely lacerated and fractured right leg.

The men were listed as "just fair" Monday noon in Mercy hospital, Columbus.

First was an auto fire Saturday. Firemen said the driver, who was unidentified, brought the car around to the station to have the blaze attended to. Cause was a lighted cigarette falling behind the front seat cushion.

Third call was from Grooms Tourist Home, 131 West Mound street. Firemen said the trouble was gas escaping from a refrigerator.

Countian Eyes Safety Contest

A Pickaway County girl, Elaine Quillen, will be among some 16 young farm people to enter final competition in the Safety Talk contest on Ohio State university campus Wednesday.

C. C. Lang, Assistant State 4-H Club Leader, says these young people have successfully passed the preliminary elimination in some eight district Safety Talk contests. Finals are to be a part of the 33rd Ohio 4-H Club Congress which gets underway on the university campus Tuesday and continues through Saturday.

In the elimination to date, girls have been competing against girls, and boys against boys. Lang says it will be the same in the state finals.

Priority Plan For Recalling Medics Readied

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—The Defense Department has established a priority system for the recall to duty of medical and dental reservists.

A three-point system approved by Defense Secretary Johnson provides that men in the unorganized reserves who received government-paid training will be called up first.

Members of organized reserve units and men taking a 12-month medical internship were exempted from the plan. Upon completion of medical training, however, reserve internes will be subject to call.

The priority plan will work this way:

1. Reservists who were trained under the Army specialized training program or the Navy's V-12 program and who have had no military service as medical or dental officers "will be ordered to active duty before calls are made for other classifications."

2. Those who have participated in the ASTP or V-12 program but who have had some military service is the next category to be called. Those having the least amount of duty time are to be called first.

3. All other Reserve officers were placed in the third category under the priority system. The Defense Department warned, however, that the system may be ignored in the case of individuals with special skills that are required for military use.

It pointed out that "older physicians and dentists highly skilled in certain specialties must be provided from time to time."

Are your little pigs "well born"?

Size of litter alone is no indication that the pigs are well born, for the larger the litter the greater the need for essential nutrients to keep the sow in good condition during pregnancy and to insure adequate nutrition for the pigs before they are born. Nutrient requirements before and after birth differ but little. The sow is the medium through which the feeding must be done, so you can "feed your pigs before they are born." Feed the brood sow RED ROSE PIG & SOW MEAL to start the litter right, and start feeding the pigs at three weeks of age and continue them on this feed until they reach 75 pounds in weight (about 12 weeks of age) to have them well born and well fed.

SIGNS OF UNREST

AFTER nearly 20 years of living under a paternalistic government, the American people are showing signs of unrest. This condition exists in all parts of the country and in all classes of society. The people have grown weary of sham and pretense, and of promises instead of performance.

For years it seemed a wonderful idea to many to be able to place all their burdens on the government, but the realization is dawning that instead of being lightened the burdens have increased. The nation was never in graver peril.

After 18 years, voters and taxpayers are showing definite signs of anxiety, mixed with anger. News from Korea is bringing the people face to face with the actual futility of the Washington planners when the going became tough.

The American people realize now that they have been misled and their safety jeopardized by claims of military strength sufficient to halt any enemy before the breakfast bacon could become overdone on the kitchen stove.

More than $100,000,000,000 has been spent for military preparedness since World War II, with results that are apparent in every headline. The people have become disgusted with the policy of spend and spend, always for political purposes, with reckless disregard of the nation's safety. In this uprising political alignments are forgotten. The aroused portion of the populace is composed not of Republicans or Democrats, but of patriotic Americans hoping to save something from the socialistic wreck.

AN END TO SPENDING

UNLESS administration leaders show a definite change of attitude little will come from President Truman's call for reduction in non-defense spending. He has called upon nine major departments and five additional agencies of the federal government to use various means of economy in the face of demands to finance the Korean campaign, and prepare the nation for future military developments.

In the past, heads of fair-deal bureaus have felt called upon to spend all the money appropriated in their behalf, and to come back for more. In the face of increasing taxes to raise the billions needed to bolster the nation's military strength there should be an immediate end to gimmicks. All projects designed to make votes should be put aside in face of the greater need.

Flood control, dams and reclamation projects, public buildings, all schemes calling for raids upon the public treasury, should go by the board. Administration spenders should be given a long vacation.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

It is curious how quickly we forget events and issues that once excited us. We seem to be able to throw them off, as we forget last year's Hit Parade tunes.

For instance, there is Poland. On Sept. 1, 1939, the entire world was concerned with Poland. A great war was begun over the independence and integrity of Poland. Stalin and Hitler, Russia and Germany were in alliance and they marched into Poland to destroy that country. As Molotov said:

"Two swift blows to Poland, one from the German army, the other from the Red army, and nothing remained of the ugly offspring of the Versailles Treaty."

The civilized world protested and went to war, a war that continues to this day. But Poland is forgotten because it has ceased to exist. The conqueror's seal has been put upon it and the conquest has been acknowledged. Those who went to war because of Poland also went to its funeral at Teheran.

True, men fuss over what they call genocide. But they do not think of the destruction of Poland as genocide. It does not occur to them that the Poles have been driven to live under the control of Ukrainians and White Russians who hate them; or that more than a million and a quarter of them have been deported into prison camps in Russia, and that a large part of them have died of hunger and abuse.

Nobody worries about Katyn. In fact, the State Department has shown antagonism toward anyone who raises this unpleasant question. Genocide? It was just plain murder. Ten thousand Polish officers, who were prisoners of war, disappeared in 1940. When what was left of the Polish government reverted to speaking terms with Russia, they began to make inquiries concerning these officers. They furnished lists of names. The proof is complete that at no time were the Germans involved in this situation. Then the bodies of these officers were found in the Katyn forest, near Smolensk in Russia.

When Poland appealed to the International Red Cross to investigate, Russia broke off relations with Poland. At the Nuremberg trials, it was established beyond doubt that this massacre of prisoners of war was a Russian, not a German, deed.

Have the humanitarian agencies of the United Nations done anything about this? Have they raised the issue? Has the Genocide Commission said anything about it? Has UNESCO, which speaks so much about humanity, uttered a syllable?

Let the murdered be dead! Stalin must not be disturbed by the ghosts of his foul policies. It would be interesting to know if Roosevelt or Churchill at Teheran or Yalta, where the fate of peoples was determined in council, ever twitted Stalin on his murders. Did they ask him how these 10,000 Polish officers were murdered? What was the method of killing? How was it done? (Continued on Page Six)

Hay Fever Time Is Here

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

HAY fever is probably the most common of the disorders due to allergy. The hay fever season usually begins about August 15 with the flowering of the ragweed and the first scattering of its pollen in the air. It continues until the first frost. All this time the hay fever patient is apt to be acutely miserable. The lining membrane of the nose is swollen and congested, causing a feeling of stuffiness. There is a great deal of sneezing, profuse nasal discharge and itching of the nose, eyes, ears and throat. In some people the same symptoms are produced by pollens other than ragweed, and still others are chiefly sensitive to dusts.

Until recent years, efforts to prevent hay fever centered around injections of gradually increasing amounts of extracts of the pollens to which the person was sensitive. These injections were given under the skin. In many cases, they were continued the year 'round and, when this was done, the patients often escaped hay fever entirely.

The Anti-Histamines
More recently, hay fever has been treated with what are known as anti-histamines. There are a large number of these drugs available and since they are cheaper and more convenient to use, they have all but replaced efforts to desensitize patients with pollen injections in many cases. The preparations are quite effective when taken by mouth. Reactions to them, in the form of sleepiness, dizziness and, sometimes, skin rashes, may occur. Hence, they are best used under the direction of a physician. The dose in each case must be regulated by the doctor so that enough is given to control the symptoms without causing any unnecessary reactions.

Hay Fever

The anti-histamines when used in the treatment of hay fever are effective and convenient, and it would appear that they provide complete or partial relief to approximately eight out of ten of those who suffer from hay fever. Persons who suffer from hay fever would do well to consult with their physicians prior to the onset of the season so that they may be furnished with the preparation and be ready to start it when the symptoms appear.

There is a condition similar to hay fever which occurs the year 'round, known as vasomotor rhinitis. This disorder also is due to oversensitivity to dusts, pollens and foods and like hay fever, yields quite readily to treatment with anti-histaminic drugs.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
C. B.: Would a lack of vitamins or a low blood count cause roaring in one ear?

Answer: It is possible that a lessening of the number of red cells and a marked vitamin deficiency might be accompanied by ear noises. However, you should have an examination by your doctor in order to be sure of the cause.

SYNOPSIS
Perry Kimbro, staff nurse at an Atlanta hospital, had fallen deeply in love with her associate, young Doctor Adam Forrest. He is to call at her home this evening and Perry feels sure he means to propose. Reaching the apartment shared with her devoted sister, Anne, Perry finds the younger girl in a high state of excitement. What big event is Anne, too, anticipating? she wonders.

CHAPTER THREE
PERRY made the most heroic effort of her life and pulled herself into some sort of composure in the wake of Adam's announcement that he and Anne were going to be married. Some instinct deep within her told her that Anne had begun to suspect the truth, and was horrified. If Anne knew that Perry loved Adam, it would ruin everything between them. She must not let such a shadow glimmer for an instant over Anne's radiant happiness, over Adam's delight.

"Well," she managed at last, "I have to hand it to you for keeping a secret. Heavens! I didn't even know you were mildly interested in each other."

Adam said anxiously, "I know I'm not worthy of her and all that, but, Perry, I'll do my damndest to make her happy. You don't mind, Perry?"

And Perry said, before she could control the words, "Would it matter if I did?"

Adam's jaw set a little. It would matter, yes, a great deal. It wouldn't alter her plans, of course, but it would matter to both of us. We love each other, Perry, but you're somebody pretty special, and we couldn't be completely happy unless we had your blessing and approval," he said quietly.

"Perry, you do mind!" Anne's voice was small and frightened, and her lovely face was pale. Perry made herself say, with a gaiety that sounded completely false in her own ears, "You goose! Mind? I'm tickled to death. It's only that you took me so by surprise. I'm suffering from shock, not disapproval!"

Anne gave a little choked gasp that was half tears, half laughter, and hugged Perry hard.

"Golly, I'm suffering from shock, too!" she teased. "Shocked just about speechless at the thought I might have gone and fallen in love with somebody you wouldn't approve of—very bad taste on my part."

"It would be very bad taste on mine if I didn't approve of Adam," said Perry courageously.

There was an agonizing moment of laughter and chatter and then Perry, realizing that she was very near the end of her tether, suddenly said briskly, "And now, two of you, if you're going out, scoot!"

Adam said quickly, "But you're coming, too, Perry. It's a party to celebrate our engagement, and it wouldn't be a party without you."

"Oh, yes, it would—what sort of party talk is that? Since when did a newly engaged couple need a third party on a celebration? Besides, don't you think it might just be possible I have a few plans of my own? And I certainly don't need extra people on hand for my party!" she assured them gaily, all but pushing them out of the room. She knew that unless she could have a little time alone to absorb this crushing blow, she must inevitably break down and betray herself to them.

When at last they had gone, she collapsed on the sofa, her shaking hands over her white face, and let the bitterest desolation she had ever known wash over her. To have lost Adam irrevocably as she had done was bad enough, but to see him wrapped up in love for Anne, to witness their happiness, with her own empty heart crying out its hunger...

It was hours later when she went to bed, to lie sleepless in the dark, tensed for the sound of Anne's return. She knew now that what she must do was not going to be easy, but that there was no other way out. She couldn't live here, seeing Adam every day at the hospital, coming home every night to this lonely, empty apartment, knowing that Anne and Adam were together downstairs. Knowing that it must always be like this.

She could keep up a bold front for a little while before Anne. But sooner or later Anne, gentle, loving Anne, would guess or discover the truth: that she had married the one man her sister had ever loved. And that would poison Anne's happiness beyond any hope of mending.

No, the only possible solution was for Perry to go away. For a long, long time, if not for always. She would hand in her resignation at the hospital, and she would ask the registry to find a job for her somewhere else, in some other city, as far away from here as she could go. Only in that way could she hope to keep Anne, and eventually Adam, from finding out that she loved him. It wasn't going to be easy; she would have to act with all her heart and spirit to keep them from suspecting. She would have to stay here until after the wedding, and that was a thought that crumpled her heart in a pain so agonizing that she lay breathless and shaken by it. But the moment the wedding was over she could escape, be gone before they came back from their honeymoon.

She loved the hospital where she had trained, and where for three years she had worked so contentedly and happily. She had so many

Kiernan's ONE MAN'S OPINION

There are not quite enough seats for the number of children returning to school this year, but offers have been received from thousands of unselfish kiddies to give up theirs.

The government estimates that 33 million will be enrolled in our schools and colleges. This includes both the volunteers and the draftees.

Under our system every child is 1A to the trustee officer until the age of 16. We don't just offer an education, we dare any youngster to refuse it.

And there's no question about it; we're getting to be a better educated people every year. We can get into trouble today that we weren't nearly literate enough for 50 years ago.

If you'll notice, we haven't turned up a spy or a conspirator yet who wasn't brilliant.

Anyway, if all those kids going back to school bring an apple to teacher on opening day that's one crop Brannan won't have to worry about.

after tonight, we'll never be scared again."

A druggist met an old customer on the street and asked, "Well, Tom, did that mudpuck I suggested improve your wife's appearance?" "It did for a couple of days," replied Tom mournfully, "but it wore off."

A fellow on Punch is wondering if Judge Harold Medina has booked any good Reds lately.

Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—These days, as befits a journalist with French cuffs, razor-sharp trousers and friends in the Social Register, the zoo that I visit nearly always is the Central Park Zoo. It is a tidy little place and its animals are sleek and well-groomed, as befits any resident of the upper East Side.

But it was not always so; there were days in the past when, surrounded by less glib-conscious acquaintances, my pilgrimages to the animal kingdom always consisted of trips to the Bronx Zoo, far uptown.

New York, incidentally, is simply crawling with zoos. We have another out in Staten Island, a forlorn little borough across the lower Bay, and there may be one or two other zoos around of which I know nothing. I have, after all, been in and around New York for only 35 years, and have just begun to scratch its surface.

When I was about 10, however, the adventure of the year was a trip down to the Bronx Zoo from the city in which I lived, just north of New York, in Westchester county.

Armed with Boy Scout knife, raw oatmeal flakes in a canteen and a paper full of sugar to keep up my energy (will someone kindly tell me where small boys get their ideas?), I would head toward the wilds of the Bronx, sometimes alone and sometimes accompanied by dauntless friends. That was in the long ago, but I must admit that even today the Bronx Zoo has a great deal to be said for it.

To be technically correct, there is no Bronx Zoo. There is only the New York Zoological Society in South Bronx Park, just as there is no Brooklyn Navy Yard, but rather a New York Navy Yard in Brooklyn.

The place was thrown open to the public in the autumn of 1899, given most of its impetus by the City of New York, which donated a quarter of a million dollars for the construction of buildings and the purchase of our furry and feathered friends, and also handed over 261 acres in South Bronx Park.

AT THIS WRITING, UNLESS I AM WRONG, a not too startling state of affairs, the Bronx Zoo is the largest park of its kind in the world. It has an animal population of around 2,500 lost and caged souls, including a python that stretches 14 feet laterally, a giraffe that stretches 16 feet horizontally and an elephant that weighs 7,000 pounds impressively.

There also is an enormous earthworm population which, however, is not really part of the tableaux for the cash customers but is raised purely to keep the duck-billed platypuses happy. They put away 1,800 earthworms a day, oddly enough without getting over-fat. You know what would happen to you or I if we ate 1,800 earthworms a day. You do?

These days the zoo must buy its animals rather carefully—elephants cost around $4,000 and giraffes the same. The last time I priced lions, they were selling for $50 and up, and that is about the saddest commentary on the legendary old king of beasts that I ever heard.

They buy pythons by the foot, but I have no definite word from Bill Bridges, the curator of public relations (let's all work in a zoo; the titles are wonderful), as to whether they lop them off here and there, like a liverwurst roll, saying "Ah, I'm sorry, Mrs. Jones, I went a bit over. Is that all right?"

Among the strange characters which infest or have infested the Bronx Zoo was a two-toed sloth, the crossword puzzler's delight, who went without water for 12 years and finally died, an object lesson of some sort.

They have humming birds and vampire bats—the humming birds drink an artificial nectar—but they do not have a mongoose or a giant fruit bat. The mongoose is the animal that is going to win me a $5 bet from you sometime when I ask you how to spell its plural. However, it and the fruit bat are not permitted in America, since if they bred, they might wipe out the nation's chicken, small-bird and citrus fruit populations.

IN ALL, THE BRONX ZOO CARRIES MORE THAN 150 different kinds of animals; 92 species of reptiles, including a cobra which has engaged in a spitting duel with me since I was 10, separated only by the thinnest of glass, and around 530 assorted kinds of birds.

Some of the wierdest creatures are the aoudad, solenodon, roo rhebok, whydah, markhor, bongo and malabar bubul, and I wouldn't dream of beginning to explain them to you. They are, suffice it to say, stranger than the average racetrack crowd.

I guess the thing I like best about the Bronx Zoo is that grown-ups aren't permitted in the children's zoo there—unless accompanied by children. That seems in keeping with the eternal fitness of things.

Miss Shirley Blake Wed Here Sunday Afternoon To Mr. Charles R. Leach

First Methodist Church Is Scene

The Rev. Clarence L. Swearingen officiated at the ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Shirley F. Blake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Blake of 141 West Franklin street, and Mr. Charles R. Leach, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Brown of Barnesville, at four o'clock Sunday afternoon in Circleville First Methodist church.

White gladioli, asters, ferns, and lighted tapers decorated the altar to which the bride was escorted by her father.

She wore a white, ankle-length gown fashioned of imported lace, with an off-the-shoulder neck line, long, fitted sleeves, and full, gathered skirt. The halo of artificial orange blossoms which held in place the bride's fingertip illusion veil were those which her mother had worn on her wedding day, while the single strand of pearls at her throat were a gift of the bridegroom.

It has become a tradition for each member of Phi chapter of Kappa Phi, national sorority for university women of Methodist preference, to carry the chapter's white Bible on her wedding day. With this Bible the bride carried pink roses, the Kappa Phi flower, and ivy.

Maid of honor, Miss Joanne Quilligan of Canton, wore a rose, ankle-length gown of antique faille fashioned with square neck line, fitted bodice, and full skirt. Miss Dorothy Miles of Girard, bridesmaid, wore an identical gown of jade green. Both wore small fitted caps and slippers of silver. Their silver necklaces were gifts of the bride. Ivy and white roses fashioned the small bouquets which they carried.

Standing with the bridegroom as best man was Thomas Fox of Dover. Ushers included Gordon Blake, brother of the bride, and Rex Lamb of Hamilton.

Miss Beverly Reid, vocalist, sang "My Kappa Phi Rose," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer." At the organ was Mrs. Richard McAllister.

For her daughter's wedding and the reception following, Mrs. Blake chose a gown of navy lace and crepe with matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Mrs. T. M. Brown, aunt of Mr. Leach, wore black silk complimented with rose. The corsage pinned at her shoulder was of pink roses.

Hostesses at the reception following the ceremony were Mrs. Georgia Norris of Bethel and Mrs. L. M. Yeley of Wheelersburg, aunts of the bride, Mrs. Ray A. Day of Maple Heights, and Miss Nancy Cadot of Akron. Miss Barbara Heley, cousin of the bride, was at the piano.

The bride graduated by Circleville high school and attended Ohio university. Mr. Leach was graduated by Barnesville high school and Ohio university and recently obtained his masters

Mary Grabill Is Married To Russell Shannon

Mary Ellen Grabill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Grabill of Orient Route 1, became the bride Sunday of Russell K. Shannon of Orient Route 2 in a ceremony in Greenlawn Methodist church.

The Rev. J. F. Leist of Kan-kakee, Ill., performed the double ring ceremony at the church altar, which was banked in palms, huckleberry foliage, ferns and two altar bouquets of gladioli and asters and lighted by seven-branch candelabra.

The bride was attired in a gown of traditional white slipper satin with a moulded bodice which was accentuated by a pleated bertha collar and long sleeves which came to points over the hands.

Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was held in place by a heart-shaped crownless bonnet of chantilly lace trimmed with a necklace which was brought from Wales by her grandmother.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and attended by Mrs. Leonard Rogers, matron of honor; Miss Anna Mae Downs, bridesmaid; and Miss Nancy Schlosser, flower girl. The brides' attendants wore gowns of satin, fashioned with fitted bodices and bertha collars.

The groom was attended by Eugene Kent as best man, and Thomas Shannon, his brother, Leonard Rogers and Carl Thomas served as ushers.

Mrs. James Arganbright, pianist, and Miss Donna Wickham, vocalist, presented music for the ceremony.

A reception was held in the bride's home following the ceremony, attended by 140 guests. Hostesses were Mrs. Harold Layman, Miss Helen Beavers, Miss Beulah Fausnaugh and Mrs. Jay Chaffin.

The bride was graduated by Darby Township high school while the groom was graduated by West Jefferson high school. He now is engaged in farming. The couple left for a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls and Canada following the ceremony and will live on a farm near Commercial Point after Oct. 1.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Shannon of Orient Route 2.

TERMITES
Cause damage in excess of fifty million dollars annually for REPAIRS alone. These destructive pests work in secret and may be destroying your property NOW. Have it inspected by an expert and be sure. There is no charge for the inspection, and if your property is infested they will tell you so. If termites are present you will be SHOWN and a fair price quoted for a treatment which is guaranteed for TEN YEARS.

Many irresponsible amateurs—self-styled "exterminators" and "part time" entomologists offer fantastic "guarantees" and bargain prices, but you owe it to yourself to be SURE you are securing the services of a thoroughly reliable and FINANCIALLY RESPONSIBLE company whose guarantee really has a meaning.

An effective termite treatment must not only eliminate the termites now present in the structure, but also prevent the countless thousands of others, who live in the GROUND outside the house, from returning.

The almost unbelievable cunning of the termite makes the successful treatment of your property a job for those who have the proper equipment and the KNOW HOW. Further, because of the termites tenacity and persistence it is sometimes impossible to completely exterminate them with ONE treatment. Therefore it is vital that the COMPLETE later to return, if necessary. Unless you are SURE of this fact you may find yourself with a "Guarantee" but no one STILL IN BUSINESS to MAKE GOOD.

Always remember—a guarantee is only as good as the man who gives it.

We are local representatives of a reputable and FINANCIALLY RESPONSIBLE company who are ACCREDITED MEMBERS OF THE OHIO PEST CONTROL ASSOCIATION.

DIMAG HOMERS 3 TIMES

Yanks Like Rain, Phils Find It To Be Harmful

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 — The gentle rain that droppeth from heaven received the grateful blessing of Casey Stengel today while Eddie Sawyer shopped around for an equivalent of Noah's Ark to help his Phillies.

Stengel's New York Yankees were rescued by the elements yesterday Sawyer's Whiz Kids had to take the back of the hand from the weather-man for the second time this season.

Actually, the Phillies were in better shape in the National League than the Yankees were in the American. They lost a 3-to-1, five-inning decision to the Boston Braves, Johnny Sain and the rain.

But they remained 6½ games ahead in the senior loop.

The Yankees, with three homers by Joe DiMaggio and Vic Raschi's four-hit hurling, downed the Washington Senators, 8 to 1, in their first game. Then with the Senators leading, 6-2 at the end of 3½ innings in the night-cap, came the rain, came the halt—and no contest.

Result: The Yankees stand a half-game away from the Detroit Tigers with another crack at undoing the Nats in a double bill today.

THE PHILADELPHIA story was similar to what happened to the Sawyersmen against the Pirates July 24. Eddie Waitkus had homered then to give them the lead, but the game was called and the score reverted to the previous inning and they lost.

Yesterday they trailed the Braves 3-1 but Rookie Jack Mayo homered and Grannny Hamner singled with one out in their half of the sixth. An hour and 52 minute wait failed to produce any letup in the downpour—so the score reverted to the fifth and the Phils lost.

The three homers by DiMag in the Yankee opener were his 25th, 26th and 27th of the season. He also doubled and walked to go four-for-four with four runs batted in. Raschi recorded his 19th win of the year.

The Tigers won a 12-inning, 1 to 0, thriller behind Hal Newhouse over the Chicago White Sox, but the Sox bounced back to take the second game, 5 to 4, despite a three-run Bengal upsurge in the ninth.

Luckman Paces Bears To Win

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 — Veteran Sid Luckman provided the extra drive yesterday to spark the Chicago Bears into a 10 to 3 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles, 1949 champions of the National Football League.

Luckman entered the game in the second half with the Bears trailing 3 to 0 as the result of a Cliff Patton fieldgoal for Philadelphia. He led the Bears in a 51-yard third quarter drive that ended with a short touchdown pass to George Gulyanics.

Observers Say Mr. Rickey Eyes $250,000 Offered For Robinson

CHICAGO, Sept. 11—There apparently was only one thing wrong with the story that Jackie Robinson had an injured hand and wouldn't be back with Brooklyn for several weeks—it had practically everything but the main point, namely: That, in all probability, Jackie won't be back at all.

He's known to be up for sale at a quick quarter-million.... or will be as soon as this year's National League race is no more and the Dodgers, as constituted, are mathematically as well as morally defunct.

The moral defeat seems already semi-official at this point, at least as seen in the light of late developments.

Briefly, the deflated Phillies have won only four times since the first of the month for a .364 performance, and still were able ways made about selling a player is this—the time to do it is one year too soon—not one year too late.

"In Jackie Robinson's case, I'd say he's barely soon enough."

Age, to be exact, is said to be one of the leading factors in the man's proposed transfer elsewhere—he'll be 32 next birthday.

That's only one factor among several as shown by this alleged bill of particulars:

(A) His hitting has fallen off some 40 points just when needed most... in the last five weeks; (B) his base running has become negligible; (C) a midseason leg injury has curtailed his fielding range; (D) the fact that rumors have had Robinson and Catcher Roy Campanella engaged in a feud for most of the season; (E) the fact that Manager Burt Shotton probably will be back for at least one more season—in spite of certain avowals to the contrary.

If Shotton returns to Ebbets Field (and the word is he will), then Jackie almost certainly won't. For, if persistent gossip means anything, they've been getting along like a couple of strange gimlets.

Legion Leader Calls For Break With Russia

COLUMBUS, Sept. 11—A former national American Legion commander wants the United States to void the Yalta pact and break off relations with Soviet Russia.

James F. O'Neil of Manchester, N. H., the Legion's national commander in 1948, said here yesterday that "if we are to save ourselves and preserve peace and human freedom. . . we must go on the offensive and hold it."

Addressing 500 Legionnaires from Ohio, O'Neil said:

"It has been repeatedly charged at the United Nations council tables that Russia has broken 68 pacts and treaties in recent years. We should immediately abrogate every pact and treaty we have with the Soviets."

London Death Being Probed

LONDON, Sept. 11—An investigation is underway today to determine the cause of the death of 40-year-old William Lafferty of London Route Four.

Lafferty died yesterday in a Columbus hospital. Dr. John H. Richardson, coroner's assistant, said a skull fracture had been inflicted "with a blunt instrument some time during the last 24 hours."

The London man died about 10 hours after being admitted to the hospital. Lafferty collapsed while Bill Chesser, a London taxi driver, was taking him to his home a mile east of London.

Meat Production Bigger And Still Growing In World

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—The Agriculture Department reports that world meat production is still increasing and probably will outstrip the prewar average as well as 1949 output.

For the next year or so, the department says world meat output is expected to continue to improve as production in Europe is further restored.

The continuing improvement in the meat situation is based upon a normal feed outlook, high meat prices, and an increase in livestock—cattle, hogs and sheep above 1949 numbers.

Although meat production is expected to be greater during the ensuing two years, per capita consumption still will be about five percent below the prewar average. That's because world population has increased considerably in the last 10 years.

The meat situation looks better mainly because the world is producing more pork. There are increases in beef and veal, but pork is the meat that is contributing most to the increase.

Licking Grange Raps Fichter

NEWARK, Sept. 11—The Pomona Grange of Licking County wants Governor Lausche to remove Joseph W. Fichter, Ohio State Grange master, from the state civil defense advisory council.

T. G. Warner, Utica, chairman of the Grange's resolution committee, announced that the governor has been asked to substitute another Grange member.

The Pomona Grange, an honor organization of members of other Licking County Granges, said in a resolution that it considered Fichter's qualifications for the post "unsatisfactory."

Warner is one of a group of Licking County Grange members who has tried unsuccessfully for more than two years to oust Fichter.

Communists Flee In Rout In Yongchon Area

Red Stab At Taegu Is Delayed

South Koreans Being Lauded

TOKYO, Sept. 12—(Tuesday)—Communist forces abandoned big mobile guns and other equipment northeast of Yongchon and fled in confusion Monday before a South Korean Eighth Division counter-offensive that has gained almost six miles.

An American officer at U. S. Eighth Army headquarters in Korea described the enemy retreat as a "rout" and said the victory was one of the South Korean army's greatest successes of the war.

The triumphant South Koreans late Monday afternoon were drawing a noose around an enemy pocket containing an estimated 2,000 Red troops about four miles from Yongchon.

U. S. airmen who flew over the pocket said the defeated Communist soldiers were running about aimlessly in mass confusion. Fighter planes strafed fleeing Red convoys farther up the road.

Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, American field commander in Korea, visited headquarters of the South Korean second corps, which includes the Eighth Division, and pinned the Legion of Merit on South Korean Commander General Liu.

THE SMASHING of the Red thrust at Yongchon relieved one serious threat to Taegu, central defense bastion 19 miles to the east.

Drunken Driver Gets Ten-Day Hitch In Jail

A Circleville Route 4 man was fined $150 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in jail last weekend for drunken driving.

George Edgar Young, 65, received the fine and sentence in the court of Magistrate Oscar Root following a traffic accident in the Ringgold Pike.

Deputy Sheriff Walter Richards said the man had been driving a pickup truck on Route 188 about four miles east of Circleville at 8 p. m. Saturday when the vehicle struck a culvert.

The deputy said the pickup truck struck the right side of the concrete culvert, whirled around the highway and struck the left side of the culvert with its rear end.

Guy Young, 55, also of Circleville Route 4, brother of the driver, suffered lacerations of the head, left eye and nose in the smashup. He was given treatment in Berger hospital.

Army's New Plan Turns Out Division In Only 6 Months

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—Army authorities said today that they now can turn out new combat divisions in little more than six months, as compared to a year required during World War II.

The Army will expand from ten to at least 18 and possibly as many as 30 front-line divisions in a drive to meet the needs of the Korean war and additional defenses in Europe.

During World War II, the training period for new divisions was 42 weeks, but an additional two months was needed for test exercises. The Army considered that a year was the minimum for putting a fresh division into action.

The new training schedule for an 18,000-man division is 26 weeks, with tests cut to two weeks—for a total of 28 weeks. This schedule applies regardless of whether the division is a National Guard unit called to ac-

YANK CARDS ON TABLE

Western Power Confab To Study Europe's Needs

NEW YORK, Sept. 11—The Big Three Western foreign ministers converged in New York today for momentous Western Power conferences with American cards, for the most part, already on the table.

France, Britain and the other nine North Atlantic treaty adherents who join the Big Three at the end of the week will be told:

1. The U. S. is building its armed forces up to three million men or more; is converting major industry to armaments production; and is enforcing on itself higher taxes and controls.

2. The U. S. is ready to send more troops to Europe—to the extent that the other Atlantic Alliance powers proportionately contribute.

3. Western Germany must be drawn into the military picture, perhaps contributing ten divisions by July 1, 1951, with the Atlantic Pact countries arming them.

4. A unified command of this combined European army is necessary, and the U. S. finally is willing that an American be its head. The names of General Dwight D. Eisenhower and General Omar Bradley are most frequently mentioned.

SECRETARY of State Dean Acheson and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman were flying into New York today, and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin is coming in tomorrow.

MANCHURIA INCIDENT EYED

Invitation To Red China Tops Agenda In UN Talks

LAKE SUCCESS, Sept. 11—The UN Security Council resumes debate today on Russia's demand that Communist China be invited to attend council proceedings on alleged U. S. Airforce bombings of Manchuria.

The 11-nation council meets later today in an eagerly awaited session. Interest centers on the outcome of the vote on Soviet Delegate Jacob Malik's proposal for the seating of the Chinese Communists at the council table.

The council voted last week to give prior consideration to Malik's proposal, ahead of consideration of the Peiping regime's charges that American military planes bombed and strafed Manchurian territory. The vote was 7 to 3, with one abstention.

The result of the vote raised speculation that the council might approve the conditional seating of a Chinese Communist representative, in view of the fact that the United States abstained.

A top U. S. source, however, declared over that the U. S. would oppose inviting the Communists to council debate on the Manchurian question and that of Formosa. U. S. Deputy Representative Ernest A. Gross declared that nothing new would be added to the substance of the matter by the seating of Peiping spokesmen at the council table.

OTHER DELEGATES, reached for comment would not divulge their stand on the invitation issue.

The problem of the invitation ties in with the U. S. proposal for an India-Sweden investigation commission to probe the charge of the Manchurian bombings. The Indian vote is being particularly avoided because of India's recognition of the Peiping regime and its nomination to serve on the Manchurian investigation commission.

U. S. sources are prepared to write off the proposal for the India-Sweden commission, should the Peiping government stand firm on its opposition to UN investigation of the Manchurian incident. However the U. S. may come up with other proposals for dealing with the Communist charges.

U. S. spokesmen maintain there is no point in inviting the Chinese Communists to Lake Success solely for speech-making purposes and without agreeing to an impartial inquiry into their charges.

New Economic Controls Awaited; Production Authority Created

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—Official Washington looks today for speedy imposition of federal economic controls to insure the flow of needed materials to the accelerated defense program.

Source of the control directives will be the new National Production Authority, set up Sunday to administer the allocation, priority and inventory control powers which Congress gave President Truman to help him cope with the Korean war and defense needs.

A tip-off that the NPA, established less than 24 hours after Mr. Truman gave the go-ahead, would act swiftly was contained in Commerce Secretary Sawyer's assertion that "the first official NPA orders may be expected promptly."

The agency was set up by Sawyer and will operate within the Commerce Department. Its chief is William Henry Harrison, who has taken a leave of absence from his job as president of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp.

The NPA's work will dovetail with that of the new economic stabilization agency, headed by National Mobilizer W. Stuart Symington, in carrying out the program of partial economic controls outlined to the nation Saturday night by President Truman.

Coupled with the NPA announcement was Commerce Department notice that effective midnight, Sept. 30 export controls will be reimposed on 39 iron and steel products destined for all countries except Canada.

The order returns all important iron and steel items to the controls list. It covers all pig iron, and various types of carbon steel, iron bars, concrete reinforcement bars, plate, sheet

Sen. George D. Aiken, (R) of Vermont, and Sen. Eugene D. Milliken, (R) of Colorado, are unopposed while Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, (D) of Washington, has minor opposition. Sen. Carl Hayden, (D) of Arizona, has opposition too, but is expected to win handily.

Four Cars Are Turned Into Debris

Scene Of Wreck Is Near Coshocton

COSHOCTON, Sept. 11—At least 27 Pennsylvania National Guardsmen were killed and 61 others injured today when the Spirit of St. Louis smashed into the rear of a stalled 20-car troop train six miles east of here.

Eight hours after the crash, the death toll still was not determined officially. Estimates of the dead ranged as high as 35. The 27 known dead figure was announced by Army officers.

The last four cars of the troop train were telescoped by the impact of the collision. The wreckage was in such a tangle that observers could not tell the construction of the wrecked cars.

Of the 61 injured, Army officers said 20 were critically hurt. They were taken to hospitals in Coshocton, Cambridge, Dover, Dennison and an improvised hospital in Coshocton.

Maj. George Ford of the Ohio Military District, said it has not been determined who will notify next of kin of the dead and injured. The troops were heading for Camp Atterbury, Ind., and federal service.

RIDING IN THE telescoped cars were members of the Wilkes-Barre, Pa., 109th Field Artillery Battalion. An officer said that if the crash had come 15 minutes later, most of the men would have been at breakfast in cars farther forward in the train.

Lt. Col. Frank Townsend of Wilkes-Barre, the battalion commander, told newsmen indications are that the troop train had stopped in the fog because (Continued on Page Two)

Moonshining Up Ten Pct.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—An Internal Revenue Bureau report said today moonshining increased about 10 percent in July, but was still considerably below the prewar rate.

The bureau reported it seized 682 stills in July as compared with 608 during the same month last year. In July, 1939, however, government agents put 859 stills out of operation.

Politicians Watch Maine's Election For National Trend

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—The first statewide election of 1950 takes place today in Maine, followed by hundreds of intra-party battles tomorrow in primaries in seven other states scattered from coast to coast.

The old political adage that "as Maine goes, so goes the nation" may no longer be true, but top leaders are watching the Maine balloting for signs of a national trend.

Tuesday's primaries are in Vermont, New Hampshire, Michigan, Minnesota, Colorado, Arizona and Washington. In all, the parties nominate candidates for six governorships, five seats in the U. S. Senate and 41 seats in the House.

There was a time when the Maine elections, staged in September were a harbinger of the November results. That notion was jolted when the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt carried 46 states in 1936 after Maine first went Republican.

This year, GOP Governor Frederick G. Payne and three Republican congressmen, Reps.

ocrats are running unopposed candidates to battle the GOP in November. They are Emmett J. Kelley in New Hampshire; James Bigelow in Vermont and Rep. John A. Carroll in Colorado. In Arizona, the Republicans will nominate Bruce Brockett, a rancher, against Hayden.

In Washington, the Republicans are staging the most interesting primary battle, aside from the Tobey-Powell contest in New Hampshire. Five Washington Republicans are running to win the right to oppose Sen. Magnuson.

They are National Committee woman Janet Tourtellotte, State Rep. George C. Kinnear, businessman W. Walter Williams of Seattle, Carl V. Holman, with labor support, and Al Canwell, former chairman of the state's committee to investigate un-American activities.

Williams is favored as he, alone, is from the western part of the state, but Mrs. Tourtellotte predicts her own nomination.

duel raged with enemy shells falling on the city's fringes.

Some 20 miles below the north-west front piece of the rectangular Allied beachhead, other U. S. Army units and a swarming planes hammered back powerful new Red onslaughts toward the Taegu-Pusan lifeline.

At one point in each sector, the enemy—at a fearful cost in lives—managed to project small forward wedges.

But in a third area—the east coast—South Korean troops, bolstered by U. S. tanks, artillery and aircraft, exploded with a fresh counter-offensive Monday that gained an additional two and a half miles.

In the Korean war's fourth battle zone—the south—air-supported American ground forces cleared their rear of infiltrating units after frustrating two further Red attempts to advance at points 30 to 35 miles west of the keystone port of Pusan.

At 8:30 p. m. field headquarters communique said the U. S. First Cavalry Division's west flank below Red-held Waegwan, 12 miles northwest of Taegu, "received heavy pressure" Monday. The bulletin acknowledged the Americans were "pushed back" 1,000 yards.

FHA Adopting Plan To Protect Men In Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—The Federal Housing Administration has reinstated a World War II policy designed to protect families of reservists and draftees from being evicted from their homes.

Officials reported today that the policy is being adopted without change and is broad enough to cover most hardship cases resulting from Defense Department mobilization plans.

FHA has taken the action in view of widespread interest among young men drafted into the Army and reservists ordered to duty who are buying houses on FHA-backed mortgages.

Many were reported fearful that they may lose their homes as a result of the calls.

To solve the problem, FHA has instructed its field offices that provisions of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1942 which is still in force can be reemployed.

This law permits a delay in foreclosure proceedings and allows lenders to suspend monthly payments on the principal of a loan until the man returns to civilian life.

On the second provision, principal payments would be delayed for the period of military service and three months thereafter.

One Car Rams Another; It Tunnels House

Residents of 723 North Court street learned Monday about rude awakenings.

The lesson came about 2 a. m. when a car tunneled into the side of their house.

The accident took place, according to local police, when a car driven by Forest Redman, 21, of 421 Abernethy avenue slowed to make a right turn from North Court street onto Haywood avenue, and another auto, operated by Dale DeLong, 23, of 370 East Mound street, crashed into his rear. Both cars were southbound.

Force of the impact, police said, sent Redman's car up over the sidewalk and into the front of a house occupied by Mrs. Gladys Wiggins, Mrs. Martha Horn and her son, Robert.

The blow punched a hole through the frame house, cracked porch pillars, buckled floors and shook down plaster, police said.

Injuries to the drivers were described as slight, with DeLong suffering a cut lip and Redman a cut on his right knee.

Berger hospital, was returned Saturday to his home.

Mrs. Jesse Hildenbrand of Kingston Route 1 was released to home Monday from Berger hospital, where she had been a surgical patient.

a coupling between two of the cars had broken. He said he was standing beside the train when the crash occurred.

Townsend said a flagman was attempting to wave down the crack Pennsylvania flyer which was approaching at top speed.

Father Paul Bailey of Notre Dame, a passenger on the Spirit, and the Rev. Peter McEwan of Coshocton administered last rites for the dead and dying.

A corps of ambulances from towns within a 25 mile radius transported the dead and injured to hospitals.

Private physicians administered first aid to a long line of soldiers who suffered minor injuries in the wreck. The state highway patrol set up its loud-speaker system and mobile radio unit.

Workmen attempted to cut their way into the wreckage with torches. Eight or ten bodies are believed still in the wreckage.

The troops said they felt two jolts when the double-engined train struck. The first one was lighter than the second. When the diesel-powered Spirit struck, it upended the last car of the troop train, split the second and telescoped the third.

British Pigeons Can Feast Now

LONDON — Britain's two million homing pigeons have received a new lease on life.

They can now fill their crops with unrestricted quantities of maple peas, tic beans, tares and pulses. For after nine years of forms, coupons and counterfoils the Ministry of Food has ended the rationing of their feeding stuffs.

Patrolman Aids In Man's Arrest

State Highway Patrolman Clyde Wells aided in rounding up a man early Monday who made off with a motor transit truck from Columbus.

Wells said that the man, identified as James Moore, 19, of Columbus, was arrested in possession of the truck near Shadeville by Ptl. P. R. Abbott.

Two Columbus Men Seriously Hurt In Wreck

Two Columbus men were injured seriously at about 2:45 p. m. Saturday when the truck in which they were riding crashed through a concrete bridge on Route 23 north of here.

State Highway Patrolman Clyde Wells identified the men as Carl D. Dotters, 29, the driver, and Robert Burgett, 23, a passenger in the truck.

Wells said the accident occurred on Route 23 near Route 762. The patrolman said the truck was headed south toward Circleville when it went into a skid on the curve. The truck plunged to the left, hit a guard-rail and crashed into the bridge.

Wells said the crash ripped out about 15 feet of the guardrail and the truck crashed through the concrete bridge and into the drainage creek on the left side of the road.

Both men suffered severe head lacerations in the mishap, while Burgett also suffered a severely lacerated and fractured right leg.

The men were listed as "just fair" Monday noon in Mercy hospital, Columbus.

Firemen Know How To Handle Water Leak

Water is part of a fireman's stock in trade.

So when a water leak developed in an East Main street building, Sunday morning, Circleville fire department was called to come and do something about it.

It was easy, fire ladders reported. They just turned it off. This was one of three calls the department responded to over the weekend.

First was an auto fire Saturday. Firemen said the driver, who was unidentified, brought the car around to the station to have the blaze attended to. Cause was a lighted cigarette falling behind the front seat cushion.

Third call was from Grooms Tourist Home, 131 West Mound street. Firemen said the trouble was gas escaping from a refrigerator.

E. W. Dill, 1864 Wilford, East St. Louis, Ill., says he's the happiest man in Illinois, now that he's feeling better. Mr. Dill gives all the credit to HADACOL for feeling so much better. He was suffering from deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron.

Here is Mr. Dill's statement on what HADACOL did for him: "I was a conductor for the New York Central Railroad for over 27 years. In 1947 a locomotive ran over me. I was in the hospital a year and a half. After I got out of the hospital I was very nervous and had dizzy spells all the time. I tried many things—nothing seemed to help me. Then a friend of mine persuaded me to take HADACOL—and after he insisted for 2 weeks I finally got some HADACOL. What a marvelous change has taken place—now I am able to move around, am hardly nervous at all and dizzy and fainting spells, why, they've almost completely vanished. Now I feel so good I have opened up a candy store and do a good day's work. HADACOL—why, that's the most wonderful thing there is in this world. I recommend it to all my friends."

Many Thousands are benefiting from HADACOL... even hundreds of doctors are recommending HADACOL to their patients whose systems lack Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin. HADACOL is so wonderful because HADACOL helps build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when Iron is needed) to carry these precious Vitamins and Minerals to every organ, and every part of your body—to the heart, liver, kidneys and lungs, even to the eyes, hair and nails.

Don't continue to be miserable! Don't continue to suffer! Give remarkable HADACOL a chance to help you and if you don't feel better with the first few bottles you take— you get your money back. Only $1.25 for Trial Size; Large Family or Hospital Size, $3.50.

Priority Plan For Recalling Medics Readied

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—The Defense Department has established a priority system for the recall to duty of medical and dental reservists.

A three-point system approved by Defense Secretary Johnson provides that men in the unorganized reserves who received government-paid training will be called up first.

Members of organized reserve units and men taking a 12-month medical internship were exempted from the plan. Upon completion of medical training, however, reserve internes will be subject to call.

The priority plan will work this way:

1. Reservists who were trained under the Army specialized training program or the Navy's V-12 program and who have had no military service as med-

SIGNS OF UNREST

AFTER nearly 20 years of living under a paternalistic government, the American people are showing signs of unrest. This condition exists in all parts of the country and in all classes of society. The people have grown weary of sham and pretense, and of promises instead of performance.

For years it seemed a wonderful idea to many to be able to place all their burdens on the government, but the realization is dawning that instead of being lightened the burdens have increased. The nation was never in graver peril.

After 18 years, voters and taxpayers are showing definite signs of anxiety, mixed with anger. News from Korea is bringing the people face to face with the actual futility of the Washington planners when the going became tough.

The American people realize now they have been misled and their safety jeopardized by claims of military strength sufficient to halt any enemy before the breakfast bacon could become overdone on the kitchen stove.

More than $100,000,000,000 has been spent for military preparedness since World War II, with results that are apparent in every headline. The people have become disgusted with the policy of spend and spend, always for political purposes, with reckless disregard of the nation's safety. In this uprising political alignments are forgotten. The aroused portion of the populace is composed not of Republicans or Democrats, but of patriotic Americans hoping to save something from the socialistic wreck.

AN END TO SPENDING

UNLESS administration leaders show a definite change of attitude little will come from President Truman's call for reduction in non-defense spending. He has called upon nine major departments and five additional agencies of the federal government to use various means of economy in the face of demands to finance the Korean campaign, and prepare the nation for future military developments.

In the past, heads of fair-deal bureaus have felt called upon to spend all the money appropriated in their behalf, and to come back for more. In the face of increasing taxes to raise the billions needed to bolster the nation's military strength there should be an immediate end to gimmicks. All projects designed to make votes should be put aside in face of the greater need.

Flood control, dams and reclamation projects, public buildings, all schemes calling for raids upon the public treasury, should go by the board. Administration spenders should be given a long vacation.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

It is curious how quickly we forget events and issues that once excited us. We seem to be able to throw them off, as we forget last year's Hit Parade tunes.

For instance, there is Poland. On Sept. 1, 1939, the entire world was concerned with Poland. A great war was begun over the independence and integrity of Poland. Stalin and Hitler, Russia and Germany were in alliance and they marched into Poland to destroy that country. As Molotov said:

"Two swift blows to Poland, one from the German army, the other from the Red army, and nothing remained of the ugly offspring of the Versailles Treaty."

The civilized world protested and went to war, a war that continues to this day. But Poland is forgotten because it has ceased to exist. The conqueror's seal has been put upon it and the conquest has been acknowledged. Those who went to war because of Poland also went to its funeral at Teheran.

True, men fuss over what they call genocide. But they do not think of the destruction of Poland as genocide. It does not occur to them that the Poles have been driven to live under the control of Ukrainians and White Russians who hate them; or that more than a million and a quarter of them have been deported into prison camps in Russia, and that a large part of them have died of hunger and abuse.

Nobody worries about Katyn. In fact, the State Department has shown antagonism toward anyone who raises this unpleasant question. Genocide? It was just plain murder. Ten thousand Polish officers, who were prisoners of war, disappeared in 1940. When what was left of the Polish government reverted to speaking terms with Russia, they began to make inquiries concerning these officers. They furnished lists of names. The proof is complete that at no time were the Germans involved in this situation. Then the bodies of these officers were found in the Katyn forest, near Smolensk in Russia.

When Poland appealed to the International Red Cross to investigate, Russia broke off relations with Poland. At the Nuremberg trials, it was established beyond doubt that this massacre of prisoners of war was a Russian, not a German, deed.

Have the humanitarian agencies of the United Nations done anything about this? Have they raised the issue? Has the Genocide Commission said anything about it? Has UNESCO, which speaks so much about humanity, uttered a syllable?

Let the murdered be dead! Stalin must not be disturbed by the ghosts of his foul policies. It would be interesting to know if Roosevelt or Churchill at Teheran or Yalta, where the fate of peoples was determined in council, ever twitted Stalin on his murders. Did they ask him how these 10,000 Polish officers were murdered? What was the method of killing? How was it done?

Hay Fever Time Is Here

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

HAY fever is probably the most common of the disorders due to allergy. The hay fever season usually begins about August 15 with the flowering of the ragweed and the first scattering of its pollen in the air. It continues until the first frost. All this time the hay fever patient is apt to be acutely miserable. The lining membrane of the nose is swollen and congested, causing a feeling of stuffiness. There is a great deal of sneezing, profuse nasal discharge and itching of the nose, eyes, ears and throat. In some people the same symptoms are produced by pollens other than ragweed, and still others are chiefly sensitive to dusts.

Until recent years, efforts to prevent hay fever centered around injections of gradually increasing amounts of extracts of the pollens to which the person was sensitive. These injections were given under the skin. In many cases, they were continued the year 'round and, when this was done, the patients often escaped hay fever entirely.

The Anti-Histamines

More recently, hay fever has been treated with what are known as anti-histamines. There are a large number of these drugs available and since they are cheaper and more convenient to use, they have all but replaced efforts to desensitize patients with pollen injections in many cases. The preparations are quite effective when taken by mouth.

Reactions to them, in the form of sleepiness, dizziness and, sometimes, skin rashes, may occur. Hence, they are best used under the direction of a physician. The dose in each case must be regulated by the doctor so that enough is given to control the symptoms without causing any unnecessary reactions.

Hay Fever

The anti-histamines when used in the treatment of hay fever are effective and convenient, and it would appear that they provide complete or partial relief to approximately eight out of ten of those who suffer from hay fever. Persons who suffer from hay fever would do well to consult with their physicians prior to the onset of the season so that they may be furnished with the preparation and be ready to apply it when the symptoms start.

There is a condition similar to hay fever which occurs the year 'round, known as vasomotor rhinitis. This disorder also is due to oversensitivity to dusts, pollens and foods and like hay fever, yields quite readily to treatment with anti-histaminic drugs.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

C.B.: Would a lack of vitamins or a low blood count cause roaring in one ear?

Answer: It is possible that a lessening of the number of red cells and a marked vitamin deficiency might be accompanied by ear noises. However, you should have an examination by your doctor in order to be sure of the cause.

Reaching the apartment shared with her devoted sister, Anne, Perry finds the young girl in a high state of excitement. What big event is Anne, too, anticipating? she wonders.

CHAPTER THREE

PERRY made the most heroic effort of her life and pulled herself into some sort of composure in the wake of Adam's announcement that he and Anne were going to be married. Some instinct deep within her told her that Anne had begun to suspect the truth, and was horrified. If Anne knew that Perry loved Adam, it would ruin everything between them. She must not let such a shadow glimmer for an instant over Anne's radiant happiness, over Adam's delight.

"Well," she managed at last, "I have to hand it to you for keeping a secret. Heavens! I didn't even know you were mildly interested in each other."

Adam said anxiously, "I know I'm not worthy of her and all that, but Perry, I'll do my damndest to make her happy. You don't mind, Perry?"

And Perry said, before she could control the words, "Would it matter if I did?"

Adam's jaw set a little. "It would matter, yes, a great deal. It wouldn't alter our plans, of course, but it would matter to both of us. We love each other, Perry, but you're somebody pretty special, and we couldn't be completely happy unless we had your blessing and approval," he said quietly.

"Perry, you do mind?" Anne's voice was small and frightened, and her lovely face was pale. Perry made herself say, with a gaiety that sounded completely false in her own ears, "You goose! Mind? I'm tickled to death. It's only that you took me so by surprise. I'm suffering from shock, not disapproval!"

Anne gave a little choked gasp that was half tears, half laughter, and hugged Perry hard. "Golly, I'm suffering from shock, too!" she teased. "Shocked just about speechless at the thought I might have gone and fallen in love with somebody you wouldn't approve of—very bad taste on my part."

"It would be very bad taste on mine if I didn't approve of Adam," said Perry courageously. There was an agonizing moment of laughter and chatter and then Perry, realizing that she was very near the end of her tether, suddenly said briskly, "And now, the two of you, if you're going out, scoot!"

Adam said quickly, "But you're coming, too, Perry."

Kiernan's ONE MAN'S OPINION

There are not quite enough seats for the number of children returning to school this year, but offers have been received from thousands of unselfish kiddies to give up theirs.

The government estimates that 33 million will be enrolled in our schools and colleges. This includes both the volunteers and the draftees.

Under our system every child is 1A to the trustee officer until the age of 16. We don't just offer an education, we dare any youngster to refuse it.

And there's no question about it; we're getting to be a better educated people every year. We can get into trouble today that we weren't nearly literate enough for 50 years ago.

If you'll notice, we haven't turned up a spy or a conspirator yet who wasn't brilliant.

Anyway, if all those kids going back to school bring an apple to teacher on opening day that's one crop Brannan won't have to worry about.

after tonight, we'll never be scared again."

A druggist met an old customer on the street and asked, "Well, Tom, did that mudpuck I suggested improve your wife's appearance?" "It did for a couple of days," replied Tom mournfully, "but it wore off."

A fellow on Punch is wondering if Judge Harold Medina has booked any good Reds lately.

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—These days, as befits a journalist with French cuffs, razor-sharp trousers and friends in the Social Register, the zoo that I visit nearly always is the Central Park Zoo. It is a tidy little place and its animals are sleek and well-groomed, as befits any resident of the upper East Side.

But it was not always so; there were days in the past when, surrounded by less gout-conscious acquaintances, my pilgrimages to the animal kingdom always consisted of trips to the Bronx Zoo, far uptown.

New York, incidentally, is simply crawling with zoos. We have another out in Staten Island, a forlorn little borough across the lower Bay, and there may be one or two other zoos around of which I know nothing. I have, after all, been in and around New York for only 35 years, and have just begun to scratch its surface.

When I was about 10, however, the adventure of the year was a trip down to the Bronx Zoo from the city in which I lived, just north of New York, in Westchester county.

Armed with Boy Scout knife, raw oatmeal flakes in a canteen and a paper full of sugar to keep up my energy (will someone kindly tell me where small boys get their ideas?), I would head toward the wilds of the Bronx, sometimes alone and sometimes accompanied by dauntless friends. That was in the long ago, but I must admit that even today the Bronx Zoo has a great deal to be said for it.

To be technically correct, there is no Bronx Zoo. There is only the New York Zoological Society in South Bronx Park, just as there is no Brooklyn Navy Yard, but rather a New York Navy Yard in Brooklyn.

The place was thrown open to the public in the autumn of 1899, given most of its impetus by the City of New York, which donated a quarter of a million dollars for the construction of buildings and the purchase of our furry and feathered friends, and also handed over 261 acres in South Bronx Park.

AT THIS WRITING, UNLESS I AM WRONG, a not too startling state of affairs, the Bronx Zoo is the largest park of its kind in the world. It has an animal population of about 2,500 lost and caged souls, including a python that stretches 14 feet laterally, a giraffe that stretches 16 feet horizontally and an elephant that weighs 7,000 pounds impressively.

There also is an enormous earthworm population which, however, is not really part of the tableaux for the cash customers but is raised purely to keep the duck-billed platypuses happy. They put away 1,800 earthworms a day, oddly enough without getting over-fat. You know what would happen to you or I if we ate 1,800 earthworms a day. You do?

These days the zoo must buy its animals rather carefully—elephants cost around $4,000 and giraffes the same. The last time I priced lions, they were selling for $50 and up, and that is about the saddest commentary on the legendary old king of beasts that I ever heard.

They buy pythons by the foot, but I have no definite word from Bill Bridges, the curator of public relations (let's all work in a zoo; the titles are wonderful), as to whether they lop them off here and there, like a liverwurst roll, saying "Ah, I'm sorry, Mrs. Jones, I went a bit over. Is that all right?"

Among the strange characters which infest or have infested the Bronx Zoo was a two-toed sloth, the crossword puzzlers' delight, who went without water for 12 years and finally died, an object lesson of some sort.

They have humming birds and vampire bats—the humming birds drink an artificial nectar—but they do not have a mongoose or a giant fruit bat. The mongoose is the animal that is going to win me a $5 bet from you sometime when I ask you how to spell its plural. However, it and the fruit bat are not permitted in America, since if they bred, they might wipe out the nation's chicken, small-bird and citrus fruit populations.

IN ALL, THE BRONX ZOO CARRIES MORE THAN 150 different kinds of animals; 92 species of reptiles, including a cobra which has engaged in a spitting duel with me since I was 10, separated only by the thinnest of glass, and around 530 assorted kinds of birds.

Some of the wierdest creatures are the aoudad, solenodon, roo rhebok, whydah, markhor, bongo and malabar bulbul, and I wouldn't dream of beginning to explain them to you. They are, suffice it to say, stranger than the average racetrack crowd.

I guess the thing I like best about the Bronx Zoo is that grown-ups aren't permitted in the children's zoo there—unless accompanied by children. That seems in keeping with the eternal fitness of things.

Miss Shirley Blake Wed Here Sunday Afternoon To Mr. Charles R. Leach

First Methodist Church Is Scene

The Rev. Clarence L. Swearingen officiated at the ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Shirley F. Blake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Blake of 141 West Franklin street, and Mr. Charles R. Leach, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Brown of Barnesville, at four o'clock Sunday afternoon in Circleville First Methodist church.

White gladioli, asters, ferns, and lighted tapers decorated the altar to which the bride was escorted by her father.

She wore a white, ankle-length gown fashioned of imported lace, with an off-the-shoulder neck line, long, fitted sleeves, and full, gathered skirt. The halo of artificial orange blossoms which held in place the bride's fingertip illusion veil were those which her mother had worn on her wedding day, while the single strand of pearls at her throat were a gift of the bridegroom.

It has become a tradition for each member of Phi chapter of Kappa Phi, national sorority for university women of Methodist preference, to carry the chapter's white Bible on her wedding day. With this Bible the bride carried pink roses, the Kappa Phi flower, and ivy.

Maid of honor, Miss Joanne Quilligan of Canton, wore a rose, ankle-length gown of antique faille fashioned with square neck line, fitted bodice, and full skirt. Miss Dorothy Miles of Girard, bridesmaid, wore an identical gown of jade green. Both wore small fitted caps and slippers of silver. Their silver necklaces were gifts of the bride. Ivy and white roses fashioned the small bouquets which they carried.

Standing with the bridegroom as best man was Thomas Fox of Dover. Ushers included Gordon Blake, brother of the bride, and Rex Lamb of Hamilton.

Miss Beverly Reid, vocalist, sang "My Kappa Phi Rose," "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer." At the organ was Mrs. Richard McAllister.

For her daughter's wedding and the reception following, Mrs. Blake chose a gown of navy lace and crepe with matching accessories. Her corsage was of pink roses.

Mrs. T. M. Brown, aunt of Mr. Leach, wore black silk complimented with rose. The corsage pinned at her shoulder was of pink roses.

Hostesses at the reception following the ceremony were Mrs. Georgia Norris of Bethel and Mrs. L. M. Yeley of Wheelersburg, aunts of the bride, Mrs. Ray A. Day of Maple Heights, and Miss Nancy Cadot of Akron. Miss Barbara Heley, cousin of the bride, was at the piano.

The bride graduated by Circleville high school and attended Ohio university. Mr. Leach was graduated by Barnesville high school and Ohio university and recently obtained his masters

The bride was attired in a gown of traditional white slipper satin with a moulded bodice which was accentuated by a pleated bertha collar and long sleeves which came to points over the hands.

Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was held in place by a heart-shaped crownless bonnet of chintilly lace trimmed with a necklace which was brought from Wales by her grandmother.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and attended by Mrs. Leonard Rogers, matron of honor; Miss Anna Mae Downs, bridesmaid; and Miss Nancy Schlosser, flower girl. The brides' attendants wore gowns of satin, fashioned with fitted bodices and bertha collars.

DIMAG HOMERS 3 TIMES

Yanks Like Rain, Phils Find It To Be Harmful

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 — The gentle rain that droppeth from heaven received the grateful blessing of Casey Stengel today while Eddie Sawyer shopped around for an equivalent of Noah's Ark to help his Phillies.

Stengel's New York Yankees were rescued by the elements yesterday. Sawyer's Whiz Kids had to take the back of the hand from the weatherman for the second time this season.

Actually, the Phillies were in better shape in the National League than the Yankees were in the American. They lost a 3-to-1, five-inning decision to the Boston Braves, Johnny Sain and the rain.

But they remained 6½ games ahead in the senior loop.

The Yankees, with three homers by Joe DiMaggio and Vic Raschi's four-hit hurling, downed the Washington Senators, 8 to 1, in their first game. Then with the Senators leading, 6-2 at the end of 3½ innings in the night-cap, came the rain, came the halt—and no contest.

Result: The Yankees stand a half-game away from the Detroit Tigers with another crack at undoing the Nats in a double bill today.

THE PHILADELPHIA story was similar to what happened to the Sawyers against the Pirates July 24. Eddie Waitkus had homered then to give them the lead, but the game was called and the score reverted to the previous inning and they lost.

Yesterday they trailed the Braves 3-1 but Rookie Jack Mayo homered and Granny Hamner singled with one out in their half of the sixth. An hour and 52 minutes failed to produce any letup in the downpour so—the score reverted to the fifth and the Phils lost.

The three homers by DiMaggio in the Yankee opener were his 25th, 26th and 27th of the season. He also doubled and walked to go four-for-four with four runs batted in. Raschi recorded his 19th win of the year.

The Tigers won a 12-inning, 1 to 0, thriller behind Hal Newhouse over the Chicago White Sox, but the Sox bounced back to take the second game, 5 to 4, despite a three-run Bengal upsurge in the ninth.

Hoot Evers' triple and Johnny Groth's single produced the only run of the game as Newhouse won his 14th.

Boston's pennant-minded Red Sox moved to within one game of top spot by beating the Philadelphia Athletics, 6 to 2. It was Boston's 23rd win in 26 games and the Sox's 22nd consecutive triumph over the A's in Fenway Park.

A pinch-hit double with two out and the bases loaded in the eighth inning by Tom Wright produced the winning markers for Chuck Stobbs. Ted Williams appeared as a pinch-hitter for the second time since his All-Star injury in this inning. And for the second time he was purposely walked.

Cleveland all but dropped out of contention. The Indians lost their fourth straight to the St. Louis Browns, 2 to 1, and fell seven games off the pace.

Rain or no rain, the Phils could thank the Giants and Barney Shotton.

Ole Burt recently made a similar reference to "being in the league" as was offered some years back by Bill Terry. It may be remembered that Terry's remark cost the Giants a pennant.

WELL, SHOTTON brushed aside the New Yorkers. Since then the Giants have beaten the Browns four out of five. Yesterday the Durocher men slammed down Don Newcombe, 6 to 4, on homers by Monte Irvin, Wes Westrum and Bobby Thomson.

Larry Jansen won his 16th game despite homers by Bob Morgan and Gil Hodges. Brooklyn now holds a slim ½ game leadover third place Boston and two over New York.

The St. Louis Cardinals and the Pittsburgh Pirates split. The Cards took the opener, 6 to 5, in ten innings. Stan Musial sent the game into overtime with a three-run homer in the ninth. The Bucs took the second game, 6 to 2, behind the five-hit hurling of young Bill MacDonald.

And the Cincinnati Reds downed the Chicago Cubs twice, 12 to 5 and 2 to 1.

Reds Earn Shot At HOL Pennant With 3-2 Win

Ashville Reds baseball team will meet Chillicothe Meads on a neutral field next Sunday for the Heart of Ohio League pennant.

The Ashvillers Sunday evened the series in the HOL playoff by handing the Meads a 3-2 loss on the Chillicothe pasture. Chillicothe had won the first series game by a 2-0 score.

The Reds blasted in a brace of runs to open Sunday's contest, while the Meads trailed in the first frame by scoring only a single tally.

The Meads deadlocked the contest in the fourth frame by scoring another single to give a 2-all count, while Ashville retaliated in the fifth with its game-winning run.

Winning Pitcher Bill Schmitter for the Reds eliminated four of the Mead players via strikeouts, gave up six hits and walked three.

Line score of Sunday's series evened follows:

Reds 200 010 000—3 9 2
Meads ... 100 100 000—2 6 8

Luckman Paces Bears To Win

CHICAGO, Sept. 11 — Veteran Sid Luckman provided the extra drive yesterday to spark the Chicago Bears into a 10 to 3 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles, 1949 champions of the National Football League.

Luckman entered the game in the second half with the Bears trailing 3 to 0 as the result of a Cliff Patton fieldgoal for Philadelphia. He led the Bears in a 51-yard third quarter drive that ended with a short touchdown pass to George Gulyanics.

Observers Say Mr. Rickey Eyes $250,000 Offered For Robinson

CHICAGO, Sept. 11—There apparently was only one thing wrong with the story that Jackie Robinson had an injured hand and wouldn't be back with Brooklyn for several weeks — it had practically everything but the main point, namely: That, in all probability, Jackie won't be back at all.

He's known to be up for sale at a quick quarter-million... or will be as soon as this year's National League race is no more and the Dodgers, as constituted, are mathematically as well as morally defunct.

The moral defeat seems already semi-official at this point, at least as seen in the light of late developments.

Briefly, the deflated Phillies have won only four times since the first of the month for a .384 performance, and still were able to gain a half-game on the second place Dodgers, which shows where the latter now stand. Mostly they do not... so apparently the time has come when Branch Rickey, the devout horse-trader, will consent to accept the $250,000 and let somebody else take title to Jackie, including his 40-G contract.

EITHER THE Pittsburgh Pirates or the Boston Braves are prospective—or at least indicated—purchasers of same, with the Giants and Reds also listed as possibilities. Meaning those who'll be willing to buy, if Mr. Rickey is willing to sell at this time.

Of that there seemed to be very little doubt in the mind of one astute ballfield gent, who said today: "The big point Rickey has always made about selling a player is this—the time to do it is one year too soon—not one year too late.

"In Jackie Robinson's case, I'd say he's barely been enough."

Age, to be exact, is said to be one of the leading factors in the man's proposed transfer elsewhere—he'll be 32 next birthday.

That's only one factor among several as shown by this alleged bill of particulars:

(A) His hitting has fallen off some 40 points just when needed most... in the last five weeks; (B) his base running has become negligible; (C) a midseason leg injury has curtailed his fielding range; (D) the fact that rumors have had Robinson and Catcher Roy Campanella engaged in a feud for most of the season; (E) the fact that Manager Burt Shotton probably will be back for at least one more season—in spite of certain avowals to the contrary.

If Shotton returns to Ebbs

Field (and the word is he will), then Jackie almost certainly won't. For, if persistent gossip means anything, they've been getting along like a couple of strange gimlets.

TO A POINT, in fact, where the player is said to have called his manager's attention to the fact that lakes were nearby whereby jumping was permissible at all hours. Besides, there's the strained relationship, alleged or otherwise, between Robinson and Campanella.

After all, the point must be pretty clear by this time... that, almost any day now, Mr. Rickey will be induced to take the $250,000.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 11 — The Green Bay Packers boasted a seven-game victory string today in exhibition football contests following their 16 to 14 win yesterday over the Baltimore Colts.

OSU Campus To Be Site For Meeting

At Least 3 Due To View Affair

At least eight Pickaway County 4-H Club members and advisers will play important roles during the 33rd annual Ohio 4-H Club Congress this week in Ohio State university.

Four outstanding county 4-H Club members have been selected as delegates to the convention.

Representing the county's clubs will be Jeanne Rose of the Deer Creek Hustlers; Patsy Glick of the Walnut Sew and Sew; Kenneth Reid of the Mühlenberg Flying Farmers; and Paul Teegardin Jr. of the Madison Livewires.

In addition, Elaine Quillen of the Walnut Sew and Sew Club will play a special role during the Congress.

MISS QUILLEN will compete for statewide honors in a safety-speaking contest. The Walnut lass is the district safety-speaking champion.

Genevieve Alley, county home demonstration agent, said the five-day program will begin Tuesday on the OSU campus on the topic of "4-H Club Values Endure."

Wednesday's program topic is "Planning Your Career;" Thursday's is "Know Your Government;" and Friday's program will be upon "Know Your Neighbors Across The Seas."

Thursday's government program will feature a trip by the youngsters to the State House, while Friday's program will be highlighted by addresses from students from foreign countries.

Overall theme for this year's congress is "Better Living For A Better World."

Miss Alley, Larry Best, county extension agent, and Merle Thomas, associate agent, also plan to attend phases of the Congress.

Legion Leader Calls For Break With Russia

COLUMBUS, Sept. 11—A former national American Legion commander wants the United States to void the Yalta pact and break off relations with Soviet Russia.

James F. O'Neil of Manchester, N. H., the Legion's national commander in 1948, said here yesterday that "if we are to save ourselves and preserve peace and human freedom. . . we must go on the offensive and hold it."

Addressing 500 Legionnaires from Ohio, O'Neil said:

"It has been repeatedly charged at the United Nations council tables that Russia has broken 68 pacts and treaties in recent years. We should immediately abrogate every pact and treaty we have with the Soviets."

London Death Being Probed

LONDON, Sept. 11—An investigation is underway today to determine the cause of the death of 40-year-old William Lafferty of London Route Four.

Lafferty died yesterday in a Columbus hospital. Dr. John H. Richardson, coroner's assistant, said a skull fracture had been inflicted "with a blunt instrument some time during the last 24 hours."

The London man died about 10 hours after being admitted to the hospital. Lafferty collapsed while Bill Chessier, a London taxi driver, was taking him to his home a mile east of London.

Meat Production Bigger And Still Growing In World

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—The Agriculture Department reports that world meat production is still increasing and probably will outstrip the prewar average as well as 1949 output.

For the next year or so, the department says world meat output is expected to continue to improve as production in Europe is further restored.

The continuing improvement

in the meat situation is based upon a normal feed outlook, high meat prices, and an increase in livestock—cattle, hogs and sheep above 1949 numbers.

Although meat production is expected to be greater during the ensuing two years, per capita consumption still will be about five percent below the prewar average. That's because world population has increased considerably in the last 10 years.

The meat situation looks better mainly because the world is producing more pork. There are increases in beef and veal, but pork is the meat that is contributing most to the increase.

Licking Grange Raps Fichter

NEWARK, Sept. 11—The Pomona Grange of Licking County wants Governor Lausche to remove Joseph W. Fichter, Ohio State Grange master, from the state civil defense advisory council.

T. G. Warner, Utica, chairman of the Grange's resolution committee, announced that the governor has been asked to substitute another Grange member.

The Pomona Grange, an honor organization of members of other Licking County Granges, said in a resolution that it considered Fichter's qualifications for the post "unsatisfactory."

Warner is one of a group of Licking County Grange members who has tried unsuccessfully for more than two years to oust Fichter.
